- Q2) Will a developer who registers on his own behalf be authorized to present several bids with different community, native and private partners under legal entities to be created?
- Q3) Is it rather the community or native partner who needs to register?

Answer 20 :

- R-1) A private developer who intends to present several projects with several community and native partners in the present call for tenders can register on his own behalf by completing a unique registration form.
- R-2) Taking into account that the legal entities that will submit the bids may not yet have been created at the time of filing the registration form, a developer who registers on his own behalf will be authorized to submit several bids with different community, native and private partners.
- R-3) In such a context, the community or native partner is not required to register as far as he joins to an already registered developer.
