

Tremblay, A. 2007

Les réservoirs et les gaz à effet de serre. (Reservoirs and greenhouse gas.)

Revue Pêche à la Mouche Destinations, April-May 2007:48-52.

Abstract : Hydroelectric reservoirs are biologically productive environments that emit very little greenhouse gas. They reduce the anticipated impacts of climate change on human and wildlife populations, foster fish communities and will help in meeting Canada's targets under the Kyoto Protocol.